

All seminars held at Dearborn Evangelical Covenant Church
18575 West Outer Drive, Dearborn MI 48128 from 1:00 - 4:30 pm

All seminars held at Dearborn Evangelical Covenant Church
18575 West Outer Drive, Dearborn MI 48128 from 1:00 - 4:30 pm

May 21: 1) Was Jesus a Legend? The selflessness of Jesus and an apologetic; 2) The Bible as Literature: A narrative-based apologetic to the New Testament.

- Tom Gilson and David Wood

May 21: 1) Was Jesus a Legend? The selflessness of Jesus and an apologetic; 2) The Bible as Literature: A narrative-based apologetic to the New Testament.

- Tom Gilson and David Wood

July 16: "Meet the Skeptic": Four kinds of skeptics-Spiritual, Moral, Scientific and Biblical. How to approach them and handle their objections.

- Kim Carlson and Dennis Kasproicz

July 16: "Meet the Skeptic": Four kinds of skeptics-Spiritual, Moral, Scientific and Biblical. How to approach them and handle their objections.

- Kim Carlson and Dennis Kasproicz

August 20 (Legacy): Have We Corrupted The Bible? Muslim Idiom Translations and their threat to the integrity of the Scriptures and doctrine.

- Adam Simnowitz and Sam Alvarado

August 20 (Legacy): Have We Corrupted The Bible? Muslim Idiom Translations and their threat to the integrity of the Scriptures and doctrine.

- Adam Simnowitz and Sam Alvarado

September 17: God and Mythology: 1) Does God Exist? 2) Is Christianity a Myth? The arguments for God and the historicity of Christianity.

- Jonathan Swift and Ben Edwards

September 17: God and Mythology: 1) Does God Exist? 2) Is Christianity a Myth? The arguments for God and the historicity of Christianity.

- Jonathan Swift and Ben Edwards

October 22 (Legacy): Created Equal? 1) The Ethics of Slavery in Religion. 2) Women in Islam. Do Islam and/or Christianity justify inequality?

- Steve Schlichter and Paula Harris

October 22 (Legacy): Created Equal? 1) The Ethics of Slavery in Religion. 2) Women in Islam. Do Islam and/or Christianity justify inequality?

- Steve Schlichter and Paula Harris

November 19: In the Beginning was the Logos: Math and Logic as Evidence for God and the Order of Reality.

- Scott Cherry and Clever Mathematicians yet to be identified.

November 19: In the Beginning was the Logos: Math and Logic as Evidence for God and the Order of Reality.

- Scott Cherry and Clever Mathematicians yet to be identified.

May 21, 2016

Was Jesus a Legend?
The Gospel Truth of Jesus

Special Guest Speaker
Tom Gilson
Touchstone Magazine

The Selflessness of Jesus and a Narrative-based Apologetic to the NT
"He did not leave us that option: He did not intend to."

Thus C. S. Lewis closes out his famous "Trilemma" argument on the impossibility of Jesus being a great moral teacher and nothing more. The argument is beautiful in its simplicity: it calls for no deep familiarity with New Testament theology or history, only knowledge of the Gospels themselves, and some understanding of human nature. A man claiming to be God, says Lewis, could hardly be good unless he really was God. If Jesus was not the Lord, then (to borrow Josh McDowell's alliterative version of the argument), he must have been a liar or a lunatic.

The skeptics' line now is that Jesus probably never claimed to be God at all, that the whole story of Jesus, or at least significant portions of it, is nothing more than legend. Christian apologists have responded with arguments hinging on the correct dates for the composition of the Gospels, the identities of their authors, external corroborating evidence, and the like. All this has been enormously helpful, but one could wish for a more Lewis-like approach to that new I-word, legend—that is, for a way of recognizing the necessary truthfulness of the Gospels from their internal content alone.

Pre-registration thru the website is highly recommended for $12
Cost at the door is $25.

Website: www.advanceministries.net
Contact: Scott Cherry - 313.485.7153
scott@advanceministries.net

Time: 1:00 pm - 4:30 pm

Location: Dearborn Evangelical Covenant Church
18575 West Outer Drive
Dearborn, MI 48128

May 21, 2016

Was Jesus a Legend?
The Gospel Truth of Jesus

Special Guest Speaker
Tom Gilson
Touchstone Magazine

The Selflessness of Jesus and a Narrative-based Apologetic to the NT
"He did not leave us that option: He did not intend to."

Thus C. S. Lewis closes out his famous "Trilemma" argument on the impossibility of Jesus being a great moral teacher and nothing more. The argument is beautiful in its simplicity: it calls for no deep familiarity with New Testament theology or history, only knowledge of the Gospels themselves, and some understanding of human nature. A man claiming to be God, says Lewis, could hardly be good unless he really was God. If Jesus was not the Lord, then (to borrow Josh McDowell's alliterative version of the argument), he must have been a liar or a lunatic.

The skeptics' line now is that Jesus probably never claimed to be God at all, that the whole story of Jesus, or at least significant portions of it, is nothing more than legend. Christian apologists have responded with arguments hinging on the correct dates for the composition of the Gospels, the identities of their authors, external corroborating evidence, and the like. All this has been enormously helpful, but one could wish for a more Lewis-like approach to that new I-word, legend—that is, for a way of recognizing the necessary truthfulness of the Gospels from their internal content alone.

Pre-registration thru the website is highly recommended for $12
Cost at the door is $25.

Website: www.advanceministries.net
Contact: Scott Cherry - 313.485.7153
scott@advanceministries.net

Time: 1:00 pm - 4:30 pm

Location: Dearborn Evangelical Covenant Church
18575 West Outer Drive
Dearborn, MI 48128